2nd September, 2015

Dear Parents and Carers,

This week students, parents and staff in NSW schools will acknowledge the hard work done by School Administrative and Support Staff (SASS) as part of their national recognition week.

Our dedicated SASS include:

- Our office staff who manage everything from finance to first aid and always with a happy smile to greet students and families to our school.
- School Learning Support Officers and our Aboriginal Education Officer who work diligently in classrooms and the playground to assist with student learning and wellbeing.
- Our General assistant who works hard to keep our school in tip top shape and looking fantastic.

If you have the opportunity, please take the time to thank our wonderful SASS for the incredible work they do each and every day.

North Coast Athletics Carnival

On Friday 28th August we sent a team of six students away to compete at Lismore in the North Coast Athletics Carnival. They performed extremely well on the day with Ama M placing 1st in the 200m and 3rd in the 100m 10yrs and Luke P coming 3rd in the final of the 11yrs 800m. Both these boys now qualify to race at the State Athletics Carnival at Homebush in Sydney.

A special mention to our senior boys relay team who finished 4th in the final and narrowly missed out by one position on making it to State.

A big thanks to Mr Panozzo and Mrs Prendergast who transported the team to and from the carnival on the day.

Kids Matters

Belonging and Connectedness Improves Mental Health and Learning.

All children need to feel that their world is a safe place where people will care about them, where their needs for support, respect and friendship will be met, and where they will be able to get help to work out any problems. When these needs are met children develop a sense of belonging.

A sense of belonging has been found to help protect children against mental health problems and improve their learning. Children who feel that they belong are happier, more relaxed and have fewer behavioural problems than others. They are also more motivated and more successful learners.

Being connected is about knowing you can seek support when you need it, that you will be listened to, and that you can work together with staff to help your child learn and develop. Support may come from talking with staff or from making connections with other families. Sometimes you might be feeling that things are going well, but just want to have a general chat about your child.

Being connected helps keep parents and carers informed. Parents and carers are better able to support their children's early learning experiences when they are informed about what their children are learning and doing at their early childhood service.

Belonging is important for all children, no matter what age.

In young children, feeling included creates a sense of safety and belonging. When families and early childhood services work together, children have the opportunity to build relationship skills and relationships for life.

For older kids, families and teachers can making sure the necessary ingredients are present to help children feel a sense of belonging at school. It is also important for parents to feel comfortable connecting at school and with the school community. Making the effort to take small, conscious steps to build a positive school community increases engagement and positive wellbeing outcomes for parents and children, positively impacting learning outcomes for students.

Taking opportunities to get to know other families, finding out how to support children's learning and getting involved in activities can help you feel a sense of belonging and connectedness to your early childhood service which will help your child's mental health and learning.
